

Bryan Cole named architect manager at MacKay & Sposito

Brian A. Cole, has been named Landscape Architect manager and an associate at MacKay & Sposito. Landscape architecture is a new discipline at the Vancouver-based civil engineering company.

Cole is a University of Idaho graduate. He is a member of the American Society of Landscape Architecture, and a member of the Specifier Council for Irrigation. Cole was an associate principal at the Walker Macy firm before joining MacKay & Sposito.

MacKay & Sposito's new specialty will provide for park and campus master planning, as well as design for public and retail and family housing projects.

Nationally known artists to be featured at Art on the Boulevard

Vancouver's Art on the Boulevard is taking another upward step with its next gala event that features three nationally known artists and their work at the local gallery in the Vancouver Marketplace at Columbia Street and Evergreen Boulevard.

The artists are Steve Reinmuth, Eugene, whose musical bronze works have been sold and shown throughout the United States, and Bill and Anne Jameson, also Northwesterners, whose oil paintings have been on display in North America and Europe.

Monthly galas at Art on the Boulevard are free and open to the public. The art work will remain on display through Saturday, Oct. 28.

Art on the Gallery, which opened last March, is a fine art gallery project of the Friends of the Arts, a local arts advocacy nonprofit organization that has been working since the early 1980s. One of their goals is to create an art community in the Vancouver National Historic Reserve. For further information, call 750-4499.

Insider error costs Carol Keljo money but the cause is good

The Insider does not often report why it makes mistakes, laying all the blame on the editor where it belongs, but in this case it is worth mentioning in an effort to correct future miscues that result from the Internet.

What happened was that we looked up Carol Keljo on the Internet and got all sorts of interesting information, including the fact that she was a member of the Greater Clark County Rotary Club. Indeed she had been. She is a founding and current member of the Camas-Washougal Rotary Club, though.

Our misinformation came to light when we did a piece yesterday about Keljo having been elected chair of the Greater Vancouver Chamber of Commerce.

Google, it should be noted, contains an extraordinary amount of information about almost anyone who has been in the news. We are noting here, that all the information is not necessarily correct or up-to-date.

As is tradition with Rotary Clubs, Keljo was fined for having her name in the Insider. She now faces a second fine for her name having been in this correction.
